Port of Clark carries out 2nd Batch of Seminar on Magna Carta of Women

Leading its way to a more gender-responsive working environment, Port of Clark organized the second batch of the Seminar on RA 9710: Magna Carta of Women of 2009 last June 5, 2017.

Said seminar was attended by personnel from the port's different divisions as well as personnel from the ESS, CIIS, K-9 Unit and X-ray Inspection Project. Ms. Lydia M. Baltazar, an accredited Gender and Development (GAD) Resource Pool, and also the resource speaker in the first batch (which was held last March 8), emphasized the significance of every woman in the society and their role in building a better community.

The seminar also tackles mainly the rights of women with regards to health, workplace, media, and education sector; their rights for protection against violence; and the role of every one in promoting women empowerment and gender equality.
